

Journal Entries

You will be writing on these topics during this week but you also need room after the entry to respond at a later date. We will be reading a selection that may change or enlarge your experience with the topics below. I call this a double entry journal. The minimum is half a page for each entry.

Day 1                    “Some people find it hard to express their true feelings. Have you had an occasion where it would have been best to tell your true feelings?”

Day 2                    “When I was a teenager, I thought my nose was ugly and was the first thing people saw. Do you have a feature that drives you crazy?”

Day 3                    “Protecting people or animals who are weaker than you are is important because...”

Day 4                    “Sometimes telling the truth can be very costly. Write about an instance where telling the truth caused or would cause a lot of trouble?”

Day 5                    “Write a Valentine love letter to an imaginary person describing all their wonderful attributes.