Practicing Passage & Scene Analysis to Compare and Contrast Heart of Darkness and Apocalypse Now (15 points)

Due: Tuesday or Wednesday (as soon as you have it done)
1. Identify the mood created in the first four minutes of the film (use strong adjectives): __________

2. List the images, sounds, camera angles, lighting and other cinematic devices used in the first four minutes and explain how each helps create the mood identified above: ____________________________________________________________________________

3. Consider these lines of Willard’s: “Every time I think I’m gonna wake up back in the jungle. When I was home after my first tour it was worse. I’d wake up and there’d be nothing. I hardly said a word to my wife until I said ‘yes’ to a divorce. When I was here I wanted to be there. When I was there, all I could think of was getting back into the jungle. I’m here a week now…waiting for a mission…getting softer. Every minute I stay in this room I get weaker. And every minute Charlie squats in the bush he gets stronger. Each time I looked around the walls moved in a little tighter.”

   Consider these lines of Willard’s: “Every time I think I’m gonna wake up back in the jungle. When I was home after my first tour it was worse. I’d wake up and there’d be nothing. I hardly said a word to my wife until I said ‘yes’ to a divorce. When I was here I wanted to be there. When I was there, all I could think of was getting back into the jungle. I’m here a week now...waiting for a mission...getting softer. Every minute I stay in this room I get weaker. And every minute Charlie squats in the bush he gets stronger. Each time I looked around the walls moved in a little tighter.”

4. Why does he say “Every time”? Every time what? Speculate about what he’s referring to with the words “Every time.” ____________________________________________________________________________

5. Consider the remainder of the passage above and what Willard says about his wife and about “Charlie.” Think of how his state of mind is affecting his priorities. Then answer this question: What’s the likely reason that being home after his first tour of duty was worse than what he’s experiencing now? ____________________________________________________________________________

6. List specific movements, facial expressions, gestures and sounds you see or hear Willard make and explain what each suggests about his state of mind: ____________________________________________________________________________

   ____________________________________________________________________________

   ____________________________________________________________________________

   ____________________________________________________________________________

   ____________________________________________________________________________

   ____________________________________________________________________________

   ____________________________________________________________________________
Now read the attached passage from Heart of Darkness and answer the following questions:

7. Consider the underlined portion starting with “I have wrestled with death.” Identify the mood created in this passage (use strong adjectives): ____________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   List the words or phrases in the passage that help to create this mood: ____________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   Explain how this mood is either similar to or different from that of the opening scene of Apocalypse Now:
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________

8. Read the bracketed portion of the passage and paraphrase what Marlow discovered about himself:
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________

9. At this point you don't know much about Willard's experiences or his character, so you don't know if what he’s experiencing is the same as the “wrestling with death” that Marlow experienced. So, list questions you will need answered in order to be able to figure out whether the two characters’ experiences are similar:
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
   ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________

10. Read the circled portion of the passage. List words and phrases that indicate how Marlow felt about the people back in Europe. Then sum up his feeling in your own word or phrase: __________
    ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
    ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
    ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
    ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
    ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________

11. Explain how Willard’s attitude toward people back home is similar to Marlow’s. List words and phrases from the film that provide evidence of this similarity: ____________________________
    ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
    ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
    ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
    ___________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
and then very nearly buried me.

However, as you see, I did not go to join Kurtz there and then. I remained to dream the nightmare out to the end and to my loyalty to Kurtz once more. Destiny. My destiny! Droll life is—that mysterious arrangement of merciless logic for a purpose. The most you can hope from it is some knowledge of yourself—that comes too late—a crop of unextinguishable regrets. I have wrestled with death. It is the most unexciting contest you can imagine. It takes place in an impalpable greyness with nothing underfoot, with nothing around, without spectators, without clamour, without glory, without the great desire of victory, without the great fear of defeat, in a sickly atmosphere of tepid scepticism, without much belief in your own right, and still less in that of your adversary. If such is the form of ultimate wisdom then life is a greater riddle than some of us think it to be. I was within a hair’s-breadth of the last opportunity for pronouncement, and I found with humiliation that probably I would have nothing to say. This is the reason why I affirm that Kurtz was a remarkable man. He had something to say. He said it. Since I had peeped over the edge myself, I understand better the meaning of his stare that could not see the flame of the candle but was wide enough to embrace the whole universe, piercing enough to penetrate all the hearts that beat in the darkness. He had summed up—he had judged. “The horror!” He was a remarkable man. After all, this was the expression of some sort of belief; it had candour, it had conviction, it had a vibrating note of revolt in its whisper, it had the appalling face of a glimpsed truth—the strange commingling of desire and hate. And it is not my own extremity I remember best—a vision of greyness without form filled with physical pain and a careless contempt for the evanescence of all things—even of this pain itself. No. It is his extremity that I seem to have lived through. True, he had made that last stride, he had stepped over the edge, while I had been permitted to draw back my hesitating foot. And perhaps in this is the whole difference; perhaps all the wisdom, and all truth,